However, this extension cannot be longer than 28 days, and in a summer semester it cannot exceed the deadline specified in the academic year schedule. Only an illness or other unforeseen event may justify missing a credit procedure or an examination. The explanation for this extension shall be accepted by the course tutor who gives the final grades, and disputes in such matters shall be settled by the Dean.
10. A student may enter into the course pass procedures only with his/her identity document, regardless of the mode of the procedure. A person responsible for the course pass procedures may refuse to admit the student if it is not possible to confirm the student's identity.

In the case of students in their final semester of study, a course credit may not be given in a resit mode later than 10 days before the diploma thesis submission deadline.
